Student Council Reviews Campus Dress Regulations

By Robert Worth

Greater student participation, a review of election policies and possible new OU dress regulations were among the topics discussed at the Student Council meeting March 22.

Sophomore Sherry Anderson was recognized by the council and spoke on the need for student participation in choosing a new University president.

Miss Anderson expressed hopes that a three-member student committee, working in conjunction with the regent-faculty committee would take an active part in the selection.

Better Understanding

Dean Don Pflasterer, Student Council advisor, considered the success of such a plan to be highly unlikely and suggested that one student be selected to occupy a chair on the regent-faculty committee. The most likely student to be seated would be the president of the Student Council.

Lothar A. Luken, co-chairman of the Student Advisory Committee on Policies, advocated a better understanding of election rules. After reviewing the present election rules, the S.A.C.P. recommends that rules be amended for "More open and spirited elections."

Election Rules Modified

They also suggested that a committee be formed, consisting of four S.A.C.P. members and four Student Council members, "With the purpose of suggesting modifications for the present all-school election rules."

The S.A.C.P. hopes to have the committee work done prior to the May 10 elections.

Council member Denny Jorgensen raised a question as to whether or not the Student Council was accepting its duties as fully as it should.

He claimed that the present constitution gave it wide authority, but the council was not making full use of its vested powers.

A motion was passed appointing a constitution investigating committee with Tom Fischer as chairman. Other members include Denny Jorgensen, Linda Lindamood, Brenda Williams, Ken Shaw and Randy Owens.

Reasonable Attire

A motion concerning on-campus attire was carried and a copy sent to the Student Activities Committee. Doug Slaughter, who introduced the motion, felt that present OU dress regulations were unrealistic and that any "reasonable" attire should be accepted on the university grounds.

He also felt that the OU Student Council should decide as to what would be acceptable, and would itself impose any necessary fines on those considered to be inappropriately attired.

Ma-ie Day Combo

In other action the Council:

—passed a motion which reads as follows: "All seniors who have a course grade average of 'B' or higher at the end of the semester in which they are to graduate, have the option not to take the final examination for that course."

—swore in new Council members Linda Lindamood, sophomore, and Ken Shaw, freshman and assigned them positions as committee chairmen for Ma-ie Day games and publicity. Newly-elected Mary Ann Over was absent from the meeting and was not sworn in.

—chose a combo to play for the Ma-ie Day festivities. The choice, at the cost of $2200, is the Buffalo Springfield.

Naylor Comments On Letter Decision Sat. On New OU Science Bldg.

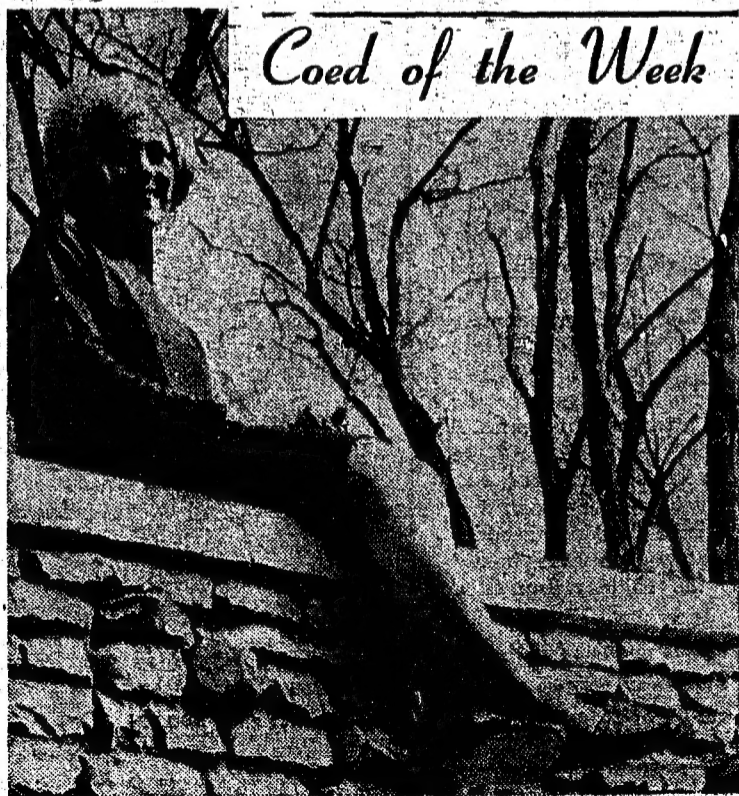

Acting President Kirk Naylor received a letter from Student Council member Doug Slaughter regarding the recent resolution regarding optional finals for seniors.

Dr. Naylor had two comments:

(1) "I am pleased that the Student Council members are considering academic matters which are of interest to them;

(2) "I shall take steps immediately to submit this to the appropriate committee of the University for consideration. It would seem to me that the academic standards committee and the deans should consider this resolution."

Lily Maid Of Astolat

Joyce, the fair; Joyce, the loveable; Joyce, the Lily Maid of Astolat. Poet Alfred Lord Tennyson inspired these lines about Coed Joyce Perchal. English literature is a favorite of the 19-year-old sophomore. In fact, she plans to teach it in high school. Joyce finds time for Zeta Tau Alpha sorority even though working 35 hours a week.

Poet's Tale In 'Evening's Frost'

Even those who have not been Frost-smitten will enjoy "An Evening's Frost."

The off-Broadway success will be performed at 8 p.m. Sunday in the Ad Auditorium under sponsorship of the College of Continuing Studies.

The New York Times called the show "A warm portrayal of Robert Frost, an evening when the poet spins out his own story, the sweet and the bitter, the tragedy and triumph, in words creating laughter, but even more often tears."

A quartet of actors, led by Will Geer as the elder Frost most familiar to his admirers, present excerpts from 43 of the New Englander's poems as well as his autobiographical comments. The program is dramatically packaged by poet Donald Hall.

Hall blends the familiar, such as "Stopping by the Woods on a Snowy Evening," with lesser known works by Frost.

Conference Attracts Future Journalists

Journalism department head Dr. Paul Peterson, an acclaimed expert on Nebraska's journalistic history, was the highlight speaker of OU's annual High School Journalism Conference, Wednesday night.

Dr. Peterson drew from his vast knowledge of newspaper folklore to entertain some 200 students from several Omaha-area high schools.

Following a roast beef dinner, awards were presented for outstanding achievements in high school journalism.

There were over 50 entries in each of six categories. Top honors went to Jim Eisenhardt, South, for best news story; Lorrain Smith, Mercy, best editorial; Greg Jahn, Creighton Prep, best sports story; John Markey, Benson, best feature and Maynard Forbes, Central, best photograph.

The Mercy Hi-Times received the Best Front Page Award.

A pre-dinner program featured talks by several OU journalism graduates.

The familiar faces included:

Karen Jensen, World Herald; Mary Lou Thibault, WOW-TV; Frank Scott, KBON; Mike Moran, OU Sports Information Director; Paul Beavers and Angus Cambell, KMTV.

Drop Deadline

Registrar Virgil Sharpe reminds students that today is the last day they can drop a class without receiving the "F" penalty. See Around Campus page 2.

Ask GI 'Bill'

Students attending OU under the GI Bill can ask any questions they have about the program today.

William Hardwick, from Lincoln Veteran's Administration office, will be in the Conference Center from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. to answer questions.

Shrinking Deficit Still Presents Pay Problem

By Lothar A. Luken

The University "still has a $260,000 to $300,000 deficit", Harold Keefover told the Board of Regents at last Thursday's meeting.

The University Controller expressed hope the deficit would be partially offset if the University realizes its full two-mill income from the city, which is currently before the State Supreme Court pending a decision.

The present deficit, down from the half-million dollar deficit of last November, "can be liquidated by 'tightening our belts'", Keefover said.

In his financial report, the Controller also explained budget preparations for next year hinge on the outcomes of LB 736, the merger bill, and LB 490, the so-called junior college aid bill, in addition to judicial action on the two-mill question.

If the merger bill passes, Keefover said, the University will have "about two or three weeks" to prepare a budget as compared to the usual two or three months.

Because of the uncertainty of the budget preparations, Keefover said, "many faculty members are sitting on the fence, wavering, wondering whether to stay" at OU or seek other jobs.

At a press conference following the meeting, Acting President Kirk Naylor told newsmen if the University "waits too long" with the budget, the faculty "may leave."

When asked how long "long" is, he replied that contract letters should be available for the faculty by June.

He also stated "there is no panic on the part of faculty members" to leave but there may be unrest if the budget is not prepared.

Student Involvement?

Several weeks ago, Acting President Kirk Naylor called for more student involvement at OU. Although he directly addressed the student-faculty retreaters, his remarks pertain to all students.

One area where student involvement has been deemed advisable is the Fine Arts Festival. Last semester the Gateway criticized the handling of the Festival.

At that time, many students agreed that they didn't have a say in the spending of $10,000 of "their money" for the Festival. Once again, another Fine Arts Festival is being planned for next fall. Students should voice their suggestions now.

However, there are two matters to be considered. First, once a student has paid his $12 activity fee, the money is no longer his. Second, no student organization exists to handle effectively such matters as a Fine Arts Festival.

Not many students may get excited about Fine Arts Festivals. But what about campus attire?

Recently the Student Council passed a resolution "liberalizing" campus dress regulations. Did the resolution go directly to the University's President?

No, it was diverted to the Student Activities Program Committee for prior approval. The committee is composed of 17 faculty members and 11 students. All members are appointed.

Why doesn't the Student Council have ultimate student power? Also there is the resolution regarding optional finals for graduating seniors. Again no student organization exists to direct such action to the proper faculty committee. President Naylor is haying to switch the resolution on to the right track.

At present, the Student Council is a social group. It plans dances, Homecoming and Maie Day. Currently it is not empowered to do much more.

The faculty is in the process of forming a faculty senate. Why can't the students have a corresponding body, which can really act?

Letters To The Editor

More Students To Pick President?

Dear Editor:

I would like to applaud Sherry Anderson's attempt to "explain the need for student participation" on the committee to select the permanent University president.

I understand that the sole student on this committee is to be Jim Butler. It seems as though there ought to be other students on the committee on an equal basis with Mr. Butler. Perhaps they could be selected by application as Miss Anderson suggested.

In other universities, perhaps far too few, students play a powerful role in administration. I am surprised at the nominal character of student representation at OU.

Within the limits allowed, the Student Council does an excellent job. I do not understand why its functions are not extended. Why could it not serve partly as an agency through which other students could serve in specialized areas in administration?

I know of students who would be eager to participate in the selection of the president. Some are not active in University activities but realize how everyone will be affected by the decision made.

There seems to be reluctance at OU to encourage all students to make themselves heard. I hope I am wrong in sensing this reluctance. I would like to believe that the University has confidence in the people it is educating.

Lama's Brother Lectures

As the brother of the Dalai Lama, Supreme and Temporal Leader of Tibet, Thubten Jigme Norbu gave the first family account ever revealed in America of the solemn ceremonies and innermost sanctuaries of Tibet.

Norbu described life in Tibet under the Chinese Communists with a lecture and a film at 8 p.m., March 28 in the Conference Center auditorium.

In a question and answer period after the film it was revealed that marriages between Tibetans are not sanctioned. The Chinese insist that all Tibetans must marry Chinese so that all future generations will be Chinese. The Chinese name is taken instead of the Tibetan one; thus the Red Chinese will be able to wipe out the Tibetan race.

A Fifth For $5

For the fifth straight year, the Omaha Advertising Club will sponsor "Meet the Pros," a two-day seminar for college advertising and marketing students, on April 7-8 at the Hotel Blackstone.

It offers students a chance to get first-hand information on job opportunities and to informally ask questions of men and women who are already successful in the field.

The program includes short talks by key advertising people in the Omaha area—representing all phases of the industry, plus informal round-table discussion sessions, tours and demonstrations.

The $5 participation fee also includes two luncheons and a Friday evening banquet.

All interested students should contact the chairman: Miss Marge West, Advertising Director of Phillips Store, 783-2600.

A Matter Of The Art

An exhibition of lithographs done by semi-abstractist Helen Gerardia is on display in the Student Center, Room 319 from April 3 - 28.

Touted as a "well-known painter and print-maker," Miss Gerardia is reported to employ "geometric optical illusion in compositions where sharply defined geometric elements are massed to suggest mountainous landscapes or where curved forms suggest still life."

'F' To Mark The Drop

That 7:30 class got you down? Registrar Virgil Sharpe reminds students that this is the last day to drop a class without receiving an automatic "F".

To drop that early morning class, or any class, obtain a change of program slip from the Registrar or your academic counselor.

Fill this out and have the counselor sign it. Return it to the Registrar, Adm. 138, before 7:30 p.m.

An Ample Corps

Cadet Airman First Class Thomas C. Kahley was selected Cadet of the Month for March by the 470th AFOTC Detachment at Omaha University.

Cadet Kahley is a 19-year-old sophomore majoring in geography. Last semester he made the dean's list with a 3.71 and holds a 3.06 cumulative.

Pharmers Poison Program

Creighton University's student chapter of the American Pharmaceutical Association will broadcast live from Omaha University's campus studio, KYNE-TV, Channel 26.

The broadcast, "Make It Safe," deals with poisoning prevention, particularly in the home. The program will be presented Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Deficit Still Plagues OU

pared soon, noting the present faculty resignations follow the usual "10 per cent" turnover.

If the merger and junior college bills pass, Dr. Naylor said, the University would be in a better position to offer higher percentage salary raises.

The only addition to last week's listing of resignations in The Gateway is John McKernan, English instructor. McKernan will work on a MFS in poetry at the University of Arkansas.

In other action, the regents:

—accepted a $500 scholarship from General Electric for OU's recent appearance on the "G.E. College Bowl", and a bequest of $5,000 from the late Chaplain S. W. Salisbury as part of the Alumni Scholarship Fund.

—adopted a proposal for the underwriting of a wristwatch presented yearly to the highest ranking AFOTC cadet graduate.

—commended Dr. Naylor for the work he has done since becoming Acting President in January, specifically in disseminating information about OU in regard to the proposed merger.

—thanked Ralph Bradley, Director of Information, for his efforts on behalf of OU at the Unicameral in Lincoln.

—listened to a report by Dr. Naylor about the recent Student-Faculty Leadership Retreat, mentioning that "nothing but good can come out of this type of activity." He also mentioned The Gateway's editorial support last week of the proposed merger.

—learned University of Missouri President John Weaver has consented to be commencement speaker in June.

Space Needed For Prom

Why was the Junior Prom held in the Student Center Ballroom instead of an off campus facility?

According to Dean Donald Pflasterer, the prom was held in the Ballroom principally because of the extra room.

Last year the prom was held at the Holiday Inn and an overflow crowd attended. This year the prom was to be held at the Birchwood Club. However, the capacity of the Birchwood Club is less than that of the Holiday Inn.

The Birchwood capacity is 300 people, William Gerbracht of Student Personnel, who helped sponsor the dance, estimated that around 600 attended this year.

Did the fact that the Birchwood serves liquor have any bearing on the decision? Dean Pflasterer stated that a school rule prohibits liquor from being served at any school function no matter where it is held. "Many student functions are held in establishments which have bars," he added. Last year's prom at the Holiday Inn is a case in point.

This column focuses attention on the problems and questions of OU students.

Any problems or questions The Gateway may be able to seek solutions for can be submitted to The Gateway office, Engr 116. The Gateway reserves the right to decide which questions it will answer.

Woods Beauties Sing Madrigals

Chances are the majority of Omaha University students wouldn't choose 16th century madrigals as their first choice in music.

But those gathered in the ballroom of the Student Center Tuesday afternoon to watch the Ceciliennes came away with a healthy appreciation for the beauty of this Elizabethan court music, and the talent required to sing it well.

And the Ceciliennes do sing well.

The group of 18 girls, under the direction of Dr. Clifford M. Shipp, hail from William Woods College in Fulton, Missouri.

Their repertoire consists principally of madrigals, complicated arrangements divided into parts with separate melodies, from the 16th century. On the Omaha leg of their current 7-state tour, they also sang selections from 19th century composers such as Robert Schumann.

These songs were sung traditionally after a sumptuous feast, and the Ceciliennes performed in colorful gowns seated at a long table. They were accompanied by Miss Virginia Rice on the piano and harpichord.

OU Frat Project To Raise Funds

Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity is sponsoring a fund raising project for the March of Dimes.

The campaign started yesterday, when the fraternity distributed coffee cans in the Ouampi room for collections and canvassed Southwest Omaha for donations.

At noon, yesterday, a team of fraternity members dribbled a basketball from OU to the Mormon Bridge, where they were met by members of the Lambda Chi chapter of the University of South Dakota.

The South Dakota members had dribbled from Sioux City, Iowa, collecting funds on the way. The meeting of the two teams signified the termination of the South Dakota campaign and the start of the OU chapter campaign.

OU Defends Phillips Title

The Indians, defending Phillips Tournament Champs play their first game in defense of the title tonight at Enid, Oklahoma.

Virgil Yelkin's baseballers enter the tournament with a 2-2 mark.

In their pre-tournament action Tues. the Indians won both ends of a double-header from Arkansas Tech in Russellville, Arkansas.

Tulsa University evened out the Indian record by dropping them in both games of a double-header Wednesday.

In the debut with Arkansas Tech, Jack Holder went the distance in the opener as the Indians erupted for 11 hits en route to a 9-3 decision.

Veteran shortstop Harold

Lenz was the big sticker for OU. His two run double in the sixth was the key blow in the opener.

Rookie left fielder Dom Polifrone rapped two singles and two RBI's in his collegiate debut.

After falling behind 1-0 in the first, pitcher Larry Wood blasted a two run homer to put the Indians in the lead.

Tulsa University blasted the Indians 11-5 at Tulsa in the opening game of a double-header Wednesday.

Rehder struck out eight Texans, was tapped for only two earned runs but still came out the loser.

OU struck for three runs in the first inning but Tulsa picked up two runs in the fourth, and one in the seventh to send the game into extra innings.

OU was out hit by Tulsa 9-5 in the nightcap. For the two game series the Indians collected 12 hits while Tulsa pounded out 22.

Since Tulsa was extended to extra innings with the Indians it might be an indication that the OU nine is again a tough team.

Spring Football

Physicals for all interested football prospects who did not play last fall will be given next Friday, April 6 at 4 p.m. in the equipment room of the fieldhouse.

All Spring candidates should check out equipment on Friday, April 7.

Official spring practice begins on Monday, April 10 at 4 p.m.

At Ring Side

St. Benedict's College, after winning the NAIA tournament, has released their final 1966-67 statistics.

Daryl Jones, team leader in scoring and rebounding, has been selected to participate in the Pan-American Games trials next week at St. Cloud State College, St. Cloud, Minn.

Jones was selected by the NAIA Coaches' Association to try out for the select team.

The 6'5" junior from St. Louis has changed several entries in the all-time St. Benedict's basketball record book after three years of varsity play.

Eighteen entries will begin the practice session in Minnesota, the final squad of 12 to be announced after the practice session.

A comparison between OU's Dennis Browne and Jones reveals that the two are closely matched in the statistics for their respective teams.

Dennis Browne

Both players led their squads in scoring and rebounding. While Browne led the CIC conference with a 17.2 rebound average, Jones grabbed rebounds at a 14.8 clip.

Jones leads the scoring race hitting at a 20.5 average for 29 games with a season high of 36 points.

Browne led the Indians with a 16.9 average with a season high mark of 31 against Chadron State.

It appears that both players are about evenly matched. But it's too bad the two will not meet again on the court, since Browne has been declared ineligible by the NAIA for his participation in two games for Missouri U. as a sophomore.

Twin Assets For OU

After the opening double-header it appears that the shaky pitching problem predicted is now solid. Two outfield veterans could and should develop into stalwarts on the squad with their fielding and wood-handling.

Ron and Lon Bernth, the two oldest squad members, brought a fantastic set of credentials to OU.

While having the opportunity to attend larger universities the twins chose their hometown college.

Lon, co-captain of this year's nine, played in 23 games and stroked at a .245 clip.

Ron has the second highest average of any returning outfielder on the team. Ron swatted for a .263 average for 14 games.

Last year in the 22-8 season both outfielders batted above the all-team average of .238.

Why Not Rodeo?

Why not start a rodeo club on campus? Besides being a challenging sport, it is a money-making project.

Why not convert the dirt floor Fieldhouse into an arena for a few days and have a real "rootin'-tootin" rodeo?

Ft. Hays St. has a rodeo club and in their meet last year the club netted over $2,000.

In a city of more than 350,000 persons, a rodeo, intercollegiate-style, could be a whopping success.

Bernth Twins: Athlete-Scholars

By Phil Johnson

"We hate the connotation of being dumb jocks" said Lonnie and Ronnie, "because we are students first and athletes second."

The Bernth twins are outstanding baseball players who turned down offers from Missouri, Texas, Iowa State and Grinnell Colleges to attend Omaha University.

They are also outstanding students; Ron carries a 3.2 average and Lon a 3.5 which has kept him on the dean's list for four semesters.

The senior ball players will be playing their fourth season for OU this year, which will make their 14th year of baseball. The twins started playing when they were eight, and their father helped coach them along during their younger years.

Their athletic talents are not limited to baseball however, for they are also fine football players and are active in most outdoor sports.

The twins are also very active in many organizations; Ron is president of the Kappa Delta Phi and Lon is president of Pi Kappa Alpha and several other organizations.

They also work for the Omaha Park and Recreation Department during the summer.

Modern Day Janus or OU's Bernth Twins? That's Right It's Ron and Lon or is it Lon and Ron...?

Lon is majoring in History and Ron in elementary education. Both hope to begin teaching as soon as they graduate, and complete their masters at a later date.

Lon, who is co-captain of OU's baseball squad, feels that the team will have a real good season this year, and probably will face their toughest competitors in defending their Phillips Title in Oklahoma.

OU Hosts Dana Meet

Omaha University will host Dana College in a dual track meet Tuesday. Field events will start at 3:30 and running events at 4 p.m.

"We don't know much about Dana's track team but we do know that they will be well represented," commented track coach Lloyd Cardwell.

Added events will be the discus, triple jump, and javelin throw.

Dennis Ondilla will run in the 100, 220 yd. dashes and 440 relay.

Jim McMahon will compete in the relays and "for the first time the 120 yd. high hurdles, and we think he can do it," said Cardwell.

Don Glasgow, Oscar Pullian, Robert Smiley, Rich Anderson, Gordon Sweeney, John Haney, Jim Scott, Paul Gub, and Bruce Jennings will round out the team.

Saturday, April 8, the Indians will travel to Kearney, Nebraska for the Kearney Invitational.
